To examine the gene-expression patterns and the regulation of gene expression in specific cell populations, a transgenic mouse was generated in which the green fluorescent protein (GFP) gene was introduced under the control of the keratin-14 promoter. Transgenic mice showed green fluorescence in hair follicles and interfollicular epidermis. Hair follicles at various stages were identified in the epidermis, and the fluorescence was found to be different from that seen in the Langerhans cells of the epidermis. The fluorescence was localized in the outer root sheath of the hair follicles
